

Eurosites

Eurosites - a home for suits and muddy boots!

“A Europe where nature is cared for, protected, restored, and valued by all.”

Nature knows no boundaries: in order to manage Europe's natural resources sustainably and effectively, Eurosite believes that the future protection and conservation of nature will be achieved through international co-operation.

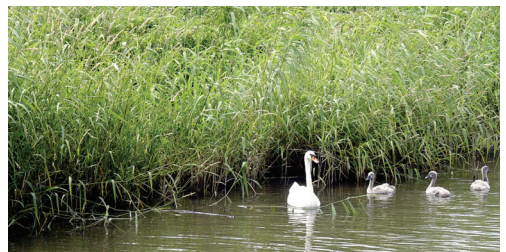

This works best through personal contact and through personal contact comes mutual understanding, shared experiences, knowledge and innovation.

This delivers better support and management of protected areas, which ensure the future protection and conservation of nature in Europe.

The Eurosite network

- Founded in 1989
- Site managers, governmental and non-governmental organisations, and individuals and organisations committed to our vision
- Members based across Europe - from the Atlantic islands to the Black Sea; and from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean
- Using Eurosite's networking tools, our members are working together to achieve our vision for Europe's nature

“Providing opportunities for practitioners to network and exchange experience on practical nature management.”

Eurosite's Objectives

Networking for Europe's nature

Networking - whether one-to-one through Twinnings or many-to-many via workshops - enables Eurosite's members to generate greater opportunities and benefits for nature as well as enhancing their own work.

A Gold Standard for information

Eurosite gathers, verifies and distributes the most relevant and up-to-date information and advice about site-based conservation, management practices, EU policy, climate change and funding.

Advocacy for site-based nature

Eurosite is an active partner of the European Commission, providing a valuable site management perspective on environmental policy. We also work to ensure that our members have a voice at EU level.

“Through sharing experiences and knowledge, enhancing and promoting the management of natural sites throughout Europe, we can make a difference.”

Stefan Versweyveld, Eurosite President, Natuurpunt, Belgium

Become a member!

Eurosite membership is ideal for individuals and organisations working to conserve Europe's nature, who want to achieve and optimise their goals for nature conservation and nature site management, who want to find local solutions to site management problems and landscape-scale conservation based on best practices elsewhere, and who want to meet with other individuals and organisations working in practical nature conservation.

Membership of Eurosite provides the opportunity to access a network of experience, knowledge and influence that saves our members time and money, and provides support to their continuing professional development.

We do this by providing guidance documents, holding workshops and training sessions, providing thematic working groups, regular informational bulletins via our eNewsletter, website and social media, representing the members at European level meetings and meeting with EC representatives. We also encourage our members to participate in a proactive manner: the more involvement, the greater the reward.

Eurosite is unique because we work with both governmental and non-governmental organisations, including the EC, across a broad range of topics, but always with a focus on day-to-day site management.
